PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

AI-first Fullstack Engineer combining software engineering with UX/UI design and applied psychology. Experienced in building high-availability enterprise applications through AI-Augmented Development, agentic workflows, and modern TypeScript stacks. Alongside engineering work, has spent four years under contract with AI labs and data-services companies evaluating model outputs against detailed rubrics — practical, hands-on insight into how LLMs actually behave, where they fail, and how output quality is measured. A background spanning product management, recruitment, business development and digital marketing enables a uniquely holistic approach to product thinking and team dynamics.
